The Carolina Thread Trail's governing board went over $1 million in community grants for trail development since November 2007 with a $60,000 award to Lancaster County, S.C.

The grant will help Lancaster County create a greenway master plan that will someday connect with the larger Thread Trail regional system. The Thread Trail is a 15-county initiative to develop a regional network of trails, paddling trails and conservation corridors in the Charlotte region.

Seven counties in the region have finished master plans, making them eligible for implementation grants, while 18 projects are under review.
